It's coming, or it's already here. I'm not sure which, so … curious.

Introduction

We have users wondering how they can import the PCB's they make to the rest of their designs. Here is how to do it with the Pixel Picker 3D plugin of Plastiliq. You can create a new layer that you can later dangle the PCB into.

Unfortunately, this is not an easy process to be honest. You could spend hours on a tutorial to get where you need to be but this is not what I am after.

I recently in a conversation with my friend and PCB Editor Larry Lacri. He and I did a great discussion about PCBs in 3d space. I think the video is going to be cool and I thought it would be a good thing for other users to be able to edit their PCB's in 3D space.

So, first off, what is a PCB?

Plastic Circuit Boards (PCBs) are boards that provide electronic signals. They are made of a series of electrical conductors and planes called "signal traces" or "wiring.

Plastic is often transparent. Having said that, you can make them from quite a range of shiny plastics, leading it to be confused with a "Printed circuit board" (which can also be called a "Pcb").
