AP The Broncos had a decision to make in the morning of Saturday, and they made the right decision. Mike Klis of 9News.com reports that the Broncos have signed former Bills linebacker Spencer Adkins. The move is a good one for both sides. Broncos general manager John Elway got an in-house replacement for Lavonte David. Adkins, 30, played last year in Buffalo and also is familiar with the Broncos' coaching staff. Adkins received a contract with the Bills from the Eagles after he was released by Philadelphia, and he started eight games at outside linebacker in 2012. With the Bills, Adkins had nine sacks. The Broncos have started four linebackers, with Danny Trevathan, Nate Irving, Steven Johnson and Donald Butler. Adkins signed with the Bills after the Eagles released him on Oct. 23. In a corresponding move, the Bills waived rookie linebacker Cameron Lynch. The move was made in order to make room for linebacker Ramon Humber, who was signed to the practice squad. Adkins will have a chance to make a bigger impact in the exhibition season. He was out of football last year because of a torn ACL.
